To Mr./Ms. _____

Our distinguished subscriber, here is IRAMONIT's September issue. First of all, I have to state that we evaluate any kind of feedback and suggestion, related to either content or form for our previous issues and we endeavor to improve this work, which has a few examples in our country. I would like to say that in the coming periods, we will provide more pervasive and detailed reports with contributions of local and foreign researches, owning a deserved reputation. I believe your encouragement and suggestions are of great significance at this point. The growing interest and demand in our report not only from official institutions but also from private sector and foreign missions is a great source of motivation for us. No doubt that this situation brings about a serious responsibility on both me and my workmates. I believe with all my heart that IRAMONIT will undertake a significant role in the assessment of developments, about Iran and the region as well as in presenting healthy, multi-layered and objective information about concerning institutions.

In this report, likewise our previous issues, we have included detailed analysis and graphs about prominent and significant topics that come forward in Iran in the last month. Our September issue, which covers several topics and is composed of 10 articles, contains the following topics; Iran's financial presence in Russia, Iran-India relations in geopolitical perspective, Iran's stance towards France's new Middle East Strategy, Tehran's diplomatic moves in September, privatization process in Iran, violation of human rights, energy geopolitics, arms embargos and Iran's operational cyber actors.

In our Special File this month, we have discussed the issue of "migration" which needs to be elaborated sensitively for both Iran and Turkey. This study that we prepared in terms of irregular migration and Iran offers important perspectives for both countries that are holding the positions of migration giving, migration receiving and transition. It particularly delves into the reasons for Iran to receive migration, what the source countries of this migration are, why Iran gives migration and into what direction this irregular migration takes place. This study, in which Iran's policies on irregular migration and migrants are given a place, is also precious for the migration studies discipline.

We hope that our report would be beneficial for yourself and your institution and wish a healthy, peaceful and successful month with the desire of meeting in next issues.

Dr. HAKKI UYGUR
Acting President
